Hi Linda,

This can be uploaded to NewTrak and handled by the Correspondence Unit. I don't see any reason to overturn the sale. The recorded notices were obviously signed and the $5700 in insurance proceeds was used to offset the total debt bid. The borrower wasn't even out of pocket for that policy in the first place -- we paid it! Nor do I see how that amount of money would make a dent in the four and a half years of default.

Hi Chris. We received the attached foreclosure dispute letter from the borrower via facsimile. The foreclosure sale was already held Tuesday 9/6/2011 and sold to a 3rd party buyer.

Please advise if the attached holds any merit and if the foreclosure sale is valid or if the funds are to be returned back to the buyer...thanks!!

Sale Date 8/02/11

Email sent to Insurance Company:

This sale has been postponed 5 times already. The borrowers last payment was on 4/2007.

I need to confirm with you where we stand at this point in time with the insurance claim. On 6/29/11 we were still pending a Release of Lien & Texas is a super lien state also need 100% inspection results. At that time, I postponed the sale for 45 days. I am thinking it might be best if I put this file on hold.

We currently have 5713.67 in 5L, and the total amount of the loss was 31608.36. Please provide the status for this claim so I may determine how we will proceed.

Thank you.

Note:
We are currently pending a Release of Lien and 100% inspection results. The last inspection was on December 22, 2009 with results at 90% and the ceiling and spot painting to be completed.

There is a valid work contract on file for $25000.00 dated August 27, 2009. We have received $29419.94 and issued $23706.27. The statute of limitations for filing a lien in Texas is 4 years, and Texas is a super lien state.

There is $2188.42 available in refundable depreciation, but due to length of time for completion, not sure if these funds would be issued.

Note:

The last draw we issued was on February 16, 2011 based on the inspection results. We are pending 100% inspection results and a Contractor's Affidavit to release the balance in 5L. There is a general contractor involved.

This is a Balboa claim and there is $2,188.42 available for recoverable depreciation. Balboa usually lists GMAC on the depreciation checks.

As of December 22, 2009, we had 90% inspection results.
